Access Sakai at <https://sakai.providence.edu>, click on “PC Login,” and enter your Providence College email address and password. After logging in, your screen should resemble this:

You'll land in your "Home" site. The top of the screen is where you can switch between sites, using the Sites "waffle."

Welcome

Dear Incoming Student,

The Mathematics Department welcomes you to Providence College. Whatever your academic interests are, we are committed to giving you the best possible advice regarding mathematics courses. For this reason we have developed a Mathematics Test and Survey.

Once you are in a site, click the tool in the sidebar to begin a test or survey.

You should try to complete each subject in one sitting. If you get interrupted, you can pick up where you left off as long as it’s within a day of your starting the test.

If you need to retake a test, you can – but the tests are intended to be an accurate reflection of your skills. You do not need to get the highest score possible.
